Guidance for Administrative or Functional Naming of Buildings

1. The use of functional names for major buildings should be limited. Over time, functions within a building will change and the name could result in confusion.
2. Some buildings may be designated by a combination of functional and commemorative names. An example would be the John Smith Performance Center.
3. In cases where functions change within the building, the commemorative name will remain with the building while the functional name will be removed or amended.
4. Departmental or program identification may appear on the exterior building sign only as controlled by and outlined in campus sign design guidelines. ~~the Exterior Campus Sign Designs Guidelines~~. However, if the building already has a commemorative name, the department or program identification may appear only on an exterior sign that also contains the commemorative building name.
5. Names of buildings and facilities with functional names may be amended to reflect future commemorative names.
